THE STORY

With no experience of riding a motorbike whatsoever and having never sat in a sidecar before, Matt and Reece decided they wanted to become the first people to ever circumnavigate the globe on a scooter with a sidecar. Why? Our news and our social media feeds are dominated by stories that paint people from different backgrounds in a bad light. Matt and Reece wanted to go around the world and show that everyday people are good. They figured that if they were to achieve a world first with zero experience, then complete strangers would have to help them along the way and it would show that the world is full of great people!

It worked too. Matt and Reece left London and were put on a conveyor belt of human spirit which carried them through some of the world's toughest environments including a -40°C Siberian winter and a plus 50°C Saharan summer.

THE TALKS

INSPIRE - In a world governed by fear, hear from two normal guys who quit their 9-5's and put their lives in the hands of local people all around the world. Find out how normal everyday people went above and beyond to help Matt and Reece achieve the unfathomable and take the most inappropriate vehicle through earth's toughest environments.

MOTIVATE - It's -40°C. You've lost all feeling in your hands and feet. Your face has frozen over. You're fearing for your life. Your bike has broken down again. You've been riding and repairing in these conditions for a week. You've got at least a month of the same left. How do you keep going?

INFORM - Interested in a specific part of our project? We can run talks and workshops on modern slavery around the world, expedition planning, fundraising, getting sponsorship and much more. We're also happy to focus talks on specific countries and sections of our route.
